rough around the edges, but a solid job. working conditions have been extremely crucial and may be difficult for some to adapt to. besides, it's well paid. Was this review helpful? The company is knowledgeable about the product. It keeps employees at a level of responsibility. Colleagues are overworked and undervalued. Very stressful Use this review useful? Where to start..... The owner has no idea. He's overwhelmed when you present him with ideas. The other in charge uses intimidation tactics to motivate employees. The building is old and needs a lot of repair, but the owner is so cheap, nothing happens. Most of the employees have been there for a maximum of two years. They either get fired or they're lucky to get another job. They produce the product for production and in this way, they have a lot of surplus products. A lot of things are running out and they have an attitude, we're just going to sell it at a discount. He doesn't have any business sense. My advice to people, don't buy their product or work for them. They'll both be bad mistakes. Was this review helpful? Management has hidden agendas. Sycophus received preferred treatments over those who expressed their thoughtful opinion on the opposite course of action. Comfortable laboratory and office settings Is not the contribution of employees for management decisions For this review useful? A typical day at JF Labs involved in constant communication with top distributors of the company's products. I needed to constantly update my product purchase and decision-making files on how we would maintain brand shooting for Vitale, Vitale Pro and Vitale Africa. The most valuable lesson I learned at JF Labs was that communication is key and customers want and should always come first. Management wasn't very practical, because we were there to micro-manage ourselves and report on our tasks on a monthly basis. Relations with co-workers were very simple, because we had to work together to complete what needed to be done. I enjoyed it here and I didn't find my challenges difficult. I saw them all as learning experiences that only prepared for my next career step. The most pleasant part was being able to represent the company in a positive way and travel to different cities to do so. Was this review helpful?
